

Raceday Integrity Coordinator

£ competitive

Based London

Working for the British Horseracing Authority, the single governing and regulatory body for British horseracing, this role will be key to ensuring the sport's ongoing integrity. Acting as a key link between our Integrity Services Team, Raceday Stipendiary Stewards and Handicappers you will ensure consistency in decision making and will provide expert briefings on trends and issues.

While you will be based in London, you will travel to racecourses nationwide when required. You will provide essential support to Stipendiary Stewards, and to share your professional opinion regarding live racing and post-race analysis. In this way, you will identify breaches of the rules and collate and analyse intelligence trends. You will also follow up any concerns over the running of the race.

You will be a highly skilled race reader, with extensive experience in racing and a good knowledge of betting. Excellent interpersonal, negotiation and persuasion skills are also required.

To apply please send your CV, stating your current remuneration, with a covering letter to: The British Horseracing Authority, Human Resources Department, 151 Shaftesbury Avenue, London WC2H 8AL or email: recruitment@britishhorseracing.com

Closing date: 18th May 2009.
